ARRAIGN ALCOHOL IN STRONG TERMS

American Medical Scientists Present Serious Facts Before Convention.

THE GREAT NATIONAL CURSE

One-Third of a Million Incbriates Die Every Year, But as Many New Recruits Keep Ranks Full.

(Special Correspondence.) Philadelphia, April 5.-The national uprising against the liquor traffic is being strikingly reflected in the notable conference now in progress in this city, at the Hotel Rittenhouse, the semi-an nual meeting of the American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Othe Drug Narcotics. Nearly two score of the most distinguished scientists and medical leaders of America are present ing the very latest developments of research and professional práctise as they relate to alcohol and its poisonous

AMERICA'S MILLION INEBRIATES.

"Inebriety and Its Prevention" was read by Dr. De Lancy Carter of New York City, specialist in mental diseases. He declared that the problem was to correct the present conditions, and in some way check the army of inebrlates recruited every year, to the extent of 260,000 who are dying yearly. There are 1,000,000 inebrlates in this country. Fully a third die every year, and yet the number keeps up. There are evidently certain distinct causes that work to supply this death rate. This is the field for physicans. This is the sanitary problem that exceeds anything known to modern civilization. He urged institutions for their treatment. Iectures, educational efforts, and every legal method of restraint, that can possibly check and prevent this great on-coming tide of inebriety. NEITHER FOOD NOR MEDICINE

"Alcohol Not a /Food or Medicine, ut Always a Poison," was the title a paper read by Dr. Howard A. Kelprofessor of diseases of women, at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore,

He declared that alcohol was nonbe classed as a drug and as a poison, with no rightful position as a medicine. The effects were so pronounced that it should be abolished in the interests of

That the number of schoolchildre

Lodge hospital, Hartford, Conn.

He declared that inshricty was a very unable disease, particularly in the sarly stages, by the use of physical and psychical means. He said that there were over a million persons in this sometry using spirits and drugs to excess, and suffering from an actual disease which is curable, and in a very large number of cases preventable.

He denied that there were any specific drugs which could be used, and that each case was to be treated according to the conditions present. The number of cures by all sorts of methods were of cures by all sorts of methods were the very best evidence of the curability of this disease when managed by sclea-tific men along scientific lines.

O. S. L. Prizes for Potato Growers Are To Improve Varieties.

Relative to the potato prize offered by the Short Line for growers along the lines of the Oregon Short Line, General Passenger Agent Burley writes The News as follows, under date of April 7, 1910:

J. A. Reeves, general freight agent, has referred to me letter adressed to you by H. E. Poole, Menan, Idaho, under date of April 4, in reference to our der date of April 4, in reference to our potato prizes, complaining of lack of cars, etc. Our $726 prize, good at points on the Oregón Short Line in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, you notice is confined to one acre. The purpose of offering this prize is not so much to increase the general production of potatoes as it is to encourage and stimulate the growth of the better varieties of potatoes. Our prize offer is confined to four of the best varieties of late potatoes. The trouble with our growers in toes. The trouble with our growers in the past has been that they have cul-tivated all kinds and classes of potatoes. There is bein cul-tivated in Utah and Idaho over 100 different varieties, and probably only per cent of them are really first-

We know in a general way that at times there is a shortage of cars, and more or less delay in shipment, and especially in the fall of the year, when stock is moving, and all kinds of farm products are being sent to various markets. This condition will undoubtedly exist to a greater or less extent, but railroad companies are progressing and growing—trying to keep up with the procession, and no doubt but what we will be able to do it to a more or less satisfactory degree. We are continually purchasing additional equipment, and in the main I think handling the business very satisfactorily. The great trouble with the majority of growers is that in the fall of the year, when various products are being harvested, they hold back invariably for hished prices, and do not get their products to market early enough, and leter when the state to the same and the restriction. We know in a general way that at ucts to market early enough, and later when it gets into cold weather a great deal of this perishable stuff can only be handled in refrigerator cars, and they are not always available. If dealers and growers would learn to get into the market early in the fall, when they can ship in the ordinary box car without any risk of loss by freez-ing, there would be no trouble what-ever in taking care of the business.

D. M. & N. OFFICIALS HERE. General Freight and Passenger Agent J. B. Hansen of the Duluth, Masaba & Northern road, wife and daughter, and C. L. Kennedy, commercial agent of the C. M. & St. P. at Duluth, and wife, are here in a private car, visiting the far west for the first time.

W. P. DINING CARS HERE.

Four fine dining cars are in the Rio Grande yards for the Western Pacific, and four more are coming, with a full equipment of baggage and passenger coaches. While energetic efforts will be made to rehabilitate the tracks damaged by lake and flood, as the San Francisco officials stated while here Thursday, it will be at least 20 days before the road will be in condition for operation again. In the mean-time, the freight accumulated here, must be turned over to the Southern Pacific. Orders have been sent out to receive no more freight until further notice. It was stated this morning, that the eight miles of roadbed through the lake will be raised several feet reason that he had not had sufficient time to consult with the defendant in regard to his case. The court set Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock as the time for entering the plea.

The same order was made in the case of Harry Thorne, charged with Hayes with the same crime. Atty. Denny acted for Torne, and made a request for the statutory time for pleading after the reading of the information. Thorne will also plead to the murder charge Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

During the scene in court this morn-

During the scene in court this morning, Hayes maintained his attitude of unconcern and bravado, standing erect with head tilted high in the air during the reading of the information charging him with murder. Thorne, however, who is a mere youth, bowed his head during the reading of the information and indicated by the twitchings of his mouth and the hunted look he cast about the courtroom his overwrought nervous condition.

The men were handcuffed and taken back to Jail to await the time for pleading Tuesday morning, being accompanied by several deputies.

Several Are Identified as "the" Holdur Who Turned Nine Tricks Thursday Night.

Seven men have been arrested as sus pects since the lone hold-up man turned nine tricks Thursday night. Two, who were arrested at Provo Friday afternoon, were released after Detective Chase took a look at them. One of the suspects was arraigned this morning in the criminal division of the city court on the charge of vagrancy, pleaded guilty and was given a "floater" out of town. This man was C. Rogers, arrested early Friday morning. Four suspects are still in jail, and two of them have been identified as "the" hold-up.

The men still in jail are: Joe Porter, P. T. Thompson, alias Evans; Tom Galvin and Roy Demar. Two or more witnesses have identified both Thomp son and Demar as "the" hold-ups, Each of the two offers to prove an absolute alibi, and the police are "up in the air." Victims of Thursday night's work called at police headquarters today and asked to look at the prisoners. Cliff Hodgson and R. Gotherg, two boys who Hodgson and R. Gotberg, two boys who were held up and robbed on east Seventh South, identified Thompson, or Evans, as the man who robbed them at the point of a gun. L. B. Bert Scheller, who was held up on Third East and Fifth South, and who talked to the highwayman for several minutes, declares emphatically that Demar is not the man, but that Thompson looks more like the hold-up, but is now dressed differently.

Poplar Grove cars, identified Demar as the man who got onto the front platform of his car near Postoffice place on the night of the robberies, rode to Seventh South and then boarded a town bound car. The question with the police now is: whose who? They don't know. All of the suspects deny any knowledge of the crimes and offer to establish their innocence beyond the peradventure of doubt.

"We propose to investigate every statement made by the prisoners," said Chief of Detectives Sheets this morning. "We are just as anxious to establish their innocence as to convict them. What we want are the facts, and if the young men are innocent they will

What we want are the facts, and if the young men are innocent they will be released. They have told us where they were on the night of the robberies and we are checking up on their statements, and we are not going to 'railroad' anyone because somebody says 'he looks like the man.'"

For a time it was believed that Thompson was the man who shot Robert J. Robinson, a construction engineer residing at 237 Fourth East street, on Third South last midnight, but the idea was dismissed by the police after closely questioning Thompson or Evans.

Robinson was on his way home and was near Earl's court when two men attempted to hold him up. He ran and one of the footpads fired a shot at Robinson. The builet struck him in the muscles of the left shoulder, inflicting only a slight flesh wound. Robinson was taken to the home of Dr. J. C. Landenberger, 312 First avenue, where the wound was dressed, and afterward was taken to his home.
